Accuracy, the independent financial advisory firm to business leaders and their shareholders, is continuing to develop internationally. The group announced this January that it was opening an office in New Delhi to support its European clients in India and also to offer its services to Indian companies. The management of this office has been entrusted to Sumit Khosla, who joined Accuracy as a Managing Partner. With around ten consultants very quickly, this office is intending to have around twenty employees in the coming months.

Accuracy strengthens its position as a global player through its business with its clients.

The group is indeed already strong, with eleven offices in eight countries (France, Spain, The Netherlands, Belgium, Italy, Britain, Germany, Canada), and thus announces its first office in Asia.

The Indian office is managed by Sumit Khosla (41 years old, ESC Amiens)

Sumit Khosla started his career in 1993 with PricewaterhouseCoopers Paris as a financial auditor, before moving to PricewaterhouseCoopers London as a Manager within the Transaction Services department.

In 2008 Sumit joined Mazars as Head of Corporate Finance in India, focusing on the promotion of Indo-European transactions.

Sumit Khosla, Managing Partner of the Accuracy New Delhi office, should be heading up a team of twenty consultants by the end of 2012. Accuracy provides its European clients with a range of transaction, valuation and analysis services to assist them in their investments and projects in India.

According to Frédéric Duponchel, CEO of Accuracy "The multicultural profile of Sumit Khosla, trained in M&A transactions in his European experience and deep knowledge of the Indian market is an exceptional asset to our customers."
